

PSY 8300: Developmental Psychology

An investigation of the development of the principal psychological processes of learning, perception, and motivation with emphasis on phylogenetic comparisons and the effects of early experiences on these processes in the nature organism.

Credits: 3.0

Program: Psychological and Brain Sciences