

EDU 7126: Teaching for Engagement

This one-credit course will examine theory and research on student engagement, including its constituents, antecedents, and effects. Participants will learn to use this literature and design-thinking to create learning environments and experiences that promote active student engagement in learning.

Credits: 1.0

Program: Education and Counseling